Just now catching up with yesterday's paper. This is a nice thing to read over one's coffee and bagel.

That just got posted to a couple of the news sites I check. Good for him and for the students at GMU. As long as it doesn't become a novelty or a token act, I applaud you!

But electing a dude as homecoming queen is not the way to bolster pride, sophomore Grant Bollinger said. Mason was recently named the No. 1 national university to watch by U.S. News & World Report, he said -- it should act like it.

Wait, what? As someone who attended a "distinguished institution of higher learning," I think Mr. Bollinger has it exactly backward. That is exactly the kind of act I expect from a top-tier university. Good on George Mason. :-)

Step by step by step, we make the world a better place. Step by step by step.

Well done, that (drag-)queen!

Not so well done the guy complaining about it, who at best has made himself look like a humourless drone, and at worst a homophobic idiot, internationally.

Never trust a reporter. =)

Yay my school!

(The thing about being a commuter grad student is you don't really pay attention to a lot of that stuff. I had no idea.)
